Gigachess is a competitive game for the chess-playing system of the same name. You can play using a Chess variant ruleset called Chess960, or you can learn the game and play the normal game, with its ruleset, the Chess Engines variant. Despite its name, Gigachess doesn't actually add any engines to the game. That said, it is possible to install and play engine-powered versions of your favorite chess variants on top of Gigachess, and the game is written to support switching between these versions. Gigachess was launched in 2010 to promote the CCGB tournament, and was maintained as a hobby project until 2016, when it was finally (officially) released as a commercial product.

Features : Six different "switches" and one option in the main menu to switch the switching between these different mode

This content requires the base game "RWBY: Grimm Eclipse" (sold separately) to be purchased in Steam and that the "RWBY: Grimm Eclipse" game disc be inserted into the Steam game library.

About This Game A young girl of the Schnee family is thrust into a world war as the Grimm invade the outskirts of Vale and a ragtag group of recruits – The Vacuo Heros – join an elite corps of hunters with the goal of reclaiming their home.

Key Features Featuring the original anime-style art of the RWBY manga

New Story Missions Gain new powers and abilities, including the ability to summon shadow clones of your team members.

New Event Enemies Varela is an orc-like monster with the ability to produce clones from shadows.

Overworld Maps Fly over the landscape of a vast open world and navigate the many regions to complete the story.

A base game is required to use this costume pack. A player must own a copy of RWBY: Grimm Eclipse (sold separately) in the Steam Store in order to access this content.

– You do not need to be in the same world as your base game to play this content.

Story missions are played alone or with up to 4 friends online.

– As usual, this content is a part of the full game, with a bunch of side content.

Team RWBY consists of four girls from a wealthy family, around the age of 17: Ruby Rose, Weiss Schnee, Blake

Belladonna, and Yang Xiao Long. Six months ago, while on vacation in the Vale district in the Far West, Team RWBY vanquishes a Grimm invasion and encounters a mysterious young man named Blake Belladonna. As the story unfolds, each team member gains a new power. Ruby's new powers allow her to summon clones of herself, Weiss gains the ability to shoot a melee attack, Blake finds the power to push objects with her mind, and Yang gained the ability to transform into a barrage of steel claws and traps. But a tide of darkness looms on the horizon. As the Grimm forces attack Vale, Team RWBY is drawn into a harrowing battle to save their home.

People, people, people is a very multi-causal term, it can mean a lot of things. It can mean being a fellow resident of the same country or feeding my hunger for survival. It can be an identity that stands alone over the years like a concrete monument. It can be my passion for art-- something I have had since childhood where other people might dismiss is as fantasy. It can be a choir of sound or a bell of ringing in my head that induces an auditory meltdown. People to me stands for human beings, and human beings are still the most potent force in the cosmos-- and Cosmos is pretty much whatever it is that scientists that look into the universe see in it. So, each day that I wake up to, I have to ask of myself "am I a people" or I try to evade from the question. I hear my grandfather ask the same question, and it makes me think about my options. Each one has its severe and its very rewarding consequences. There are the hoods, the short pants and the cast of Villians in my life who try to tell me to go back into extinction and make way for the ones who will say "hi". Here, I live as a human being that is but one of millions of human beings. Upon my being born, I am consigned to an orbit that until this day still has yet to slow down. "There is no parking, no customer service, no skills." People greet me with the question "what is you name." I have accepted
