There's no gameplay in this game, The story's barely there, the character's not much more than a lovable party animal and the graphics are horrible. Gameplay starts off with a quickly made disclaimer that will ruin what this game could have been; 'Players with strong moral convictions, this game is not for you'. This statement completely leaves out the player who would be morally challenging. Who just wants to run around and slaughter zombies at will. For the most part the game will throw you into a quick auto-pilot mode. The game has an absence of skill level points, so it will give you a passive point in your weapon, and an active point.
