The St. Louis County medical examiner identified the woman as Charlotte Devas, 29. She was found dead in her home by a relative. Police were called to the house in Chesterfield, Mo., early Tuesday for a complaint of an unresponsive person. They found Devas in her home, still warm and breathing. The medical examiner said her death was a homicide. Authorities said the cause of death has not been determined. An autopsy was scheduled for Wednesday, but it was not immediately known when an autopsy on the woman's Kratom-laced brownie might be conducted. The 4.7-ounce dark chocolate bar was labeled under ingredients "Crack Concentrate." "Crack is code for marijuana," said St. Louis Metropolitan Police Department Capt. Andrew Melton. "We're still investigating where the brownie came from." Kratom leaves are known to have narcotic effects. It's also sometimes used as a painkiller in some Southeast Asian countries, and is said to be strong enough to counteract the effects of stronger narcotics like heroin. In the U.S., Kratom is on the federal drug enforcement agency's list of controlled substances, with the drug name Mitragynine. The Food and Drug Administration has not formally assessed the safety or efficacy of kratom. The agency is studying the chemical makeup of the drug and the data on its safety. Kratom should not be confused with a drug called ketamine, which is also sold in powder form. "Kratom is a drug that's used frequently in the Pacific Northwest," Melton said. "It's
