I want to run .NET code on a Linux application that handles heavy loads. I tried via mono, but it did not work. Is there another way to run .NET applications on Linux?

Q: How to create HTTP "GET" request using Kestrel? I am using Kestrel to host my web server. I want to implement a basic HTTP server to respond to "GET" request and return a static HTML as a response. I have a controller that looks like this:

```
using Microsoft.AspNetCore.Mvc;
using Microsoft.AspNetCore.Mvc.Filters;
using Microsoft.AspNetCore.Mvc.Filters.ActionFilter;
using System.Text.RegularExpressions;
namespace {
    public class HomeController : Controller
    {
        [HttpGet] public IActionResult Index() { return View(); }
    }
```

It works fine when I hit the URL in the browser. But I want to do it by HTTP "GET" request. So I'm trying to create a client that issue a "GET" request to the "Index" controller. I've tried using the library System.Net.Http but it doesn't seem to work for me. And when I run the following code:

static void
Main(string[] args) { WebHost.CreateDefaultBuilder(args) .UseStartup() .
