Stories Apple is being sued for the first time since a sexual harassment lawsuit took down the late Steve Jobs in 2011, after an employee claims the company fired her and then blocked her from taking revenge. In their new suit, Loree Flynn claims that she was fired in retaliation for reporting her manager to the police for his unwanted touching. The allegations began back in 2011, after former Apple employee Loree Flynn sued her former employer for sexual harassment. At the time of her lawsuit, she claimed that her boss, Mike Matas, sexually harassed her, and that when she complained, she was fired and then prevented from coming forward with additional claims against him. The case was eventually dropped after it became clear Matas was never going to testify in court.
