Sometimes the game can get confused with the region it is in. Example: from Wikipedia - "it is not recommended to play as Russian characters" ("it is not recommended to fight as Russians, as the player may go crazy"). If the player does not have any racial prejudices, he can switch to any character race he likes or is simply convenient for him. Each player is allowed to play as a specific race, but cannot choose another player's race; on the contrary, he automatically passes into another race after the end of the war, which he entered of his own free will. If a player is already a race player, he can always choose one of the following races: If in any of the established classes there is an "Updatable class", then the game does not become more difficult from this, as well as the very possibility of changing the character class. You can, however, change some runes that restrict access to a special skill. The game has several classes: "Magic", "Protection", "Martial Arts", "Required" and "For summoning creatures". In addition, to develop the character, you can create auxiliary creatures. Their number and possibilities depend on the class in which the player only wants to be reborn. For example, a character might have enchantment abilities, as well as various traps and poisons. The creation of a character and the beginning of a war always occurs from the first battle. The final battle begins after the capture of cities by the player's army. To change the beginning of the conflict, you must enter the menu and select the "Land Seizure" item. Immediately after the end of the battle, you poke into the "continue" button. Scattered around the world are cities that can be captured at the start of the game. After capturing the city, you need to send a message to your ally - the embassy from another city. According to the stories of the map, each country on it has its own characteristics. For example: On Mars and on the Moon - resources, on Mercury - electricity, on Saturn - antimatter, on Uranus and Neptune - water, on Jupiter - huge dinosaurs. It is possible that some cards are supplemented with new features. To learn more about these possibilities, you need to read the guides to the maps or pick up the right vehicle and go on a trip. During the journey, you can see many different game locations, from small villages where people live and build their settlements, to large cities through which players get lost. In addition to missions, it is possible to earn (often for a certain price) points that allow you to develop a character, namely, increase its characteristics
