A reaction game where you become the hero that saves the day! Posable Heroes is a game that asks YOU to animate the characters. Pose your character and press play to see how the new animation turns out. Keep adding poses until you create a full movie that solves the level. Each level poses a challenge that you have to overcome. For this, you need to create animations that vary in length. From short and simple animations on the first levels to complex and long movies in the last levels. Since you'll be creating an entire animation, you'll have complete control of which part of the movie you want to modify. Pause the movie at any point, and add a pose. A pose is just like a keyframe, so the character knows that it has to reach that pose in that specific moment. After a pose has been created, move the character's limbs to any position. You may go for stylish movements, ninja movements, or whatever works for you! When you pose the character a projection will let you know what will happen in the near future. Use that projection to find the right movement. If you are happy with it, move on! You can add as many a poses as you need. All levels require you to build a full animation to solve them. Control up to three characters at once collaborating to solve the levels. Yes! I'm including the level editor I used for the game. So hopefully we can create a community that shares levels and challenges with each other. Support the game on Patreon. The GamePlaylist: Game Tutorial - Here you can find links to the individual levels in the game. They can be played in any order, but I recommend you to start with the first one. The Editor - Here you can download the level editor and get access to the sound and all scripts. The Sound Track - My favourite song on this game is "We Are A Team" by athcaea. You can listen to this on The Official Trailer - Tip Jar - Every tip that you receive from watching the trailer is jingle free and goes straight to the developers: Thank you so much for your support and your interest in my game! Platformer This time, There are 4/5 Comments in the thread. But the title is left blank. Posted Apr 27, 2020 - 06:57 PM pocket 2. Re: Juicy Realm Platformer "Fallen Guardians" are gonna save the... QUOTE(password Hascrub) This is going to make a fortune, so it must be done!

QUOTE(Zobo) Oh well, click the suggest button

^_^ Spoiler: Suggestions: New character:

-Protagonist -Leader Description: Introduce new characters and design of the game. Some pointers: -Minimalism -Little details -Difficulty spikes -RPG elements -Plot -Character development SO the rpg elements in the campaign should be reduced! But what if I add another key element... something that enforces the rpg elements? Description: -Classic RPG elements -Character development -elements of RPG games -we have tons of gameplay mechanics- In the actual game the main thing is to avoid 'RPG elements' -By like 2/3 (I do not mind if it goes through 100) That's too long... it is better to start with like 5 "key elements" and add, if necessary, at the end.... so the 'difficulty rises' Description: But... how can you do it?

Short descriptio: This can be done to best effect with a starter campaign. Description: -Timetable

-Sidequests -Atmosphere -Levels

-Structure/system How do these elements change the story so I do not have to add obstacles, unique elements as well as characters? First of all a good starter campaign relies on content. There is a process of: 1. Start with a simple story. 2. Add puzzles (however simple they are not cheap) 3. Add some characters and the story will have to bear them 4. Add progress points. So this means at the start i have to do is simple 'story' and in the end i do a 'story + progression' = a 'game'. I will try to do a starter campaign that is easy to leave and try at the end of the year to Kebab it Up is a mobile platform game that combines classic game genre of Runner with onion sandwich and popsicles. The fast-paced, action-packed gameplay is a mix of old school platformer elements with crazy physics and slick presentation. Five different types of enemies, multiple boss battles, and in-game Kebab shop with over 20 delicious recipes. This is the debut of Quantic Dream's new sports game, developed in collaboration with Kzaba. This all sounds great. I really would like to see another dark version like this put out from Quantic Dream. Any chance of a darker tone from them? More of a Ultra-Violence tone. I would love to be able to see it more immersed in the Noir world. I'm confident though that this game is going to do well for Quantic Dream. I think it's their best game yet. It's the type of game that gets people to review it positive and even write about the "noir" elements. I'm glad you are liking this. Just keep in mind Quantic Dream has a dark side in Fahrenheit. It's clear that video games is their bread and butter. i'm so glad they are back in our lives again and making great stuff. I really like the game so far and i would be glad if you download this theme. I know, i think i will try to download the theme from you. Thank you for this it's great. I have it installed on my account, but i don't know how to download it. I tried to download from music directly with no success. I don't even know if it's possible to download through this way. Maybe someone here can tell me how to do it. Thank you. I wish they'd make a great game
