P3DV2 Pete Dowson FSUIPC V4.934 downloadÂ .Q: Convert a string into an array or list of doubles in C#

Let's say that I have a file name in a string string fileName = "file.txt"; I would like to convert the string fileName into an array, or List containing each line of the fileName as a string[]. Here is my attempt using string.Split(' ') function: string[] strings = fileName.Split(' '); It works well because "strings" contains all the text lines from fileName and not just the first one. If I had a line like this in a fileName: line1 line2 line3 I would like to have in my strings[] array strings = { "line1", "line2", "line3" }; I have the same issue if I want to do the opposite: get the last string from strings[] and split into lines. How can I achieve this? Thanks in advance. A: Use File.ReadAllLines: string[] result = File.ReadAllLines(fileName); A: Use File.ReadLines string[] lines =

File.ReadLines(fileName); Pentagon officials conducted an evaluation of the state of U.S. nuclear weapons programs earlier this year, perhaps a prelude to a nuclear modernization plan that is likely to be a centerpiece of the Trump administration's nuclear force policy, known as New Start. The United States and Russia possess two of the smallest nuclear arsenals in the world, which are well below the levels of strategic nuclear weapons that have evolved in arsenals around the world, according to the Arms
