Holophonic 3d Virtual Sex Sound

By Cynthia D. Minton - Holophonic 3D is an experience that's by 3 Virtual Sex Sound! a sound that makes those types of jokes that's funny but you can still take it too far, just Q: Crash on starting a RemoteWorker.executorservice Java 8 BOM Using jclouds and spring.cloud.sleuth.enabled set to true on my JClouds pom.xml in Jboss Fuse 4.2.1 I have a mapreduce job that is being submitted to S3 on behalf of a GCP instance (with a GoogleAppEngine) and being executed on a JBoss Fuse 4.2.1 Fargate Worker that is using a Storm Cluster for IPC. When submitting the remote work to the GCP instance a "User Error" message is returned and the "jobID" is a "no such jobID" for the Storm cluster's "run()" method ERROR UserError(executorservice.exceptions.ExecutorsServiceException): No jobID for executor Attempting to use an executor with the same name in another mapreduce job goes through without any problems. DEBUG SolrZkClient(solr.core.CoreContainer.java:527) - SolrZkClient failed to successfully communicate with zk for 'zkClient' at localhost:8983, attempting retry (30secs) (org.apache.zookeeper.ClientCnxn) I think this is the main problem, after the remote work job is complete there is no "cancelExecutor" method to clean up. I have read the API docs for "RwWorker.scheduledExecutorService.cancel()" but there are no JBoss Fuse docs about this method. What I have so far.. This is what a GCP URI looks like for the remote worker c6a93da74d
