David S. Pumpkins is one of the most surprising cultural phenomena to come out of "Saturday Night Live." In the hilarious original sketch, known simply as "Haunted Elevator," an unsuspecting couple boards a Tower of Terror-type ride at an amusement park full of scary creatures on each floor, but one floor inexplicably has a man named David S. Pumpkins (Tom Hanks) in a suit covered with pumpkins break dancing with his friends in skeleton costumes. The couple begs for answers about why David S. Pumpkins is supposed to be scary, but no real explanation ever arrives. Pumpkins returned for an animated Halloween special and a sketch called "Rap Song" where he appeared as his rap alter-ego, David S. Pimpkins.
