Sang Nabi by Kahlil Gibran is not only a book of poetry, but also a book of wisdom. It contains profound insights and timeless truths that can guide and inspire anyone who reads it. The book is divided into 26 chapters, each dealing with a different aspect of life. Some of the most popular chapters are:

- On Love: In this chapter, Gibran writes about the nature and meaning of love. He says that love is the highest form of human expression and that it should not be restricted or controlled by any rules or laws. He also says that love is a spiritual bond that transcends the physical and that it requires freedom, trust, and sacrifice.
- On Marriage: In this chapter, Gibran writes about the relationship between husband and wife. He says that marriage is a sacred union that should be based on mutual respect and understanding. He also says that marriage should not be a chain that binds two people together, but a space that allows them to grow individually and together.
- On Children: In this chapter, Gibran writes about the role and responsibility of parents towards their children. He says that children are not the property or the extension of their parents, but the sons and daughters of life itself. He also says that parents should not impose their own will or expectations on their children, but rather guide them with love and wisdom.
- On Joy and Sorrow: In this chapter, Gibran writes about the duality and balance of joy and sorrow in life. He says that joy and sorrow are inseparable and that they are the source of our growth and learning. He also says that joy and sorrow are like seasons that come and go, and that we should embrace them both with gratitude and grace.

These are just some of the chapters in Sang Nabi by Kahlil Gibran. Each chapter offers a unique perspective and a valuable lesson on how to live a meaningful and fulfilling life. By reading this book, you can enrich your mind, heart, and soul with the beauty and wisdom of Gibran's words.
